

WALT: find the 'd' words. It may be 'dog' 'ladder' or 'hugged'

The 'd' Sound

Read the text. Can you find any 'd' words? Look for d, dd, or ed. Remember to read the word to check it has the right sound before you highlight it.

My new pony was named Dancer. I was giddy with happiness. I gazed at the pony, looking over the half door of the stable. I waited as the other riders filed past me with their ponies and then I led Dancer out into the paddock. It was time for some exercise. Dancer zoomed away as soon as I freed her. I had no doubt that she would be fast, that was a definite! As the weeks passed, I trained Dancer to let me put the saddle on, sit on her back and ride around. I added in an additional few minutes of riding every day. Dancer could be maddening though; sometimes as I led her back to the stable she would suddenly run away, daring me to chase her. Then she would whinny as I raced around the muddy field, my face getting redder and redder!
