

The 'n' Sound

Read the text. Can you find any 'n' words? Look for n, nn, kn or gn.

Remember to read the word to check it has the right sound before you highlight it.

Nerves gnawed at the squire's stomach as he prepared to kneel. This panic was a novel feeling for him. Now, he was to be made a knight. Knights needed to know how to defend and attack castles. They had to be ready to travel to foreign places on quests. They had to have knowledge of battles and they had to swear an oath. The nobles watched as King Arthur (for it was the time of his reign) laid his sword on the squire's shoulders. Then the squire stood up, a new knight. His father came over to congratulate him; he took his son's strong hand in his own gnarled one. The knight could see that his father had grown weaker and thinner; he could feel his bony knuckles. The old man patted him on the back, smiled and said, 'Hello Sir!'

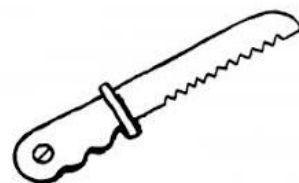

Complete the 'nn' sentences using the correct words (as an extra challenge-hide the words below and try to spell them yourself)

It was a lovely _____ day.

Dad has a _____ in his tool box.

I was the _____ of the race.

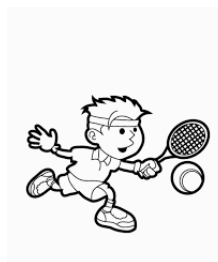

I used a _____ to cut the bread.

It is polite to _____ on the door before entering.

I saw a stop _____ at the end of the road.

I like to play _____.

tennis knife spanner knock sign sunny winner